

The logo for SDU (University of Southern Denmark) features the letters 'SDU' in a bold, sans-serif font, followed by a stylized graphic of a leaf or branch.

University of Southern Denmark

A photograph of four students in a hallway. In the foreground, a young man with curly hair in a black sweater is talking to a young woman in a green patterned sweater who is holding a tablet. In the background, another woman in a beige top and a man with glasses are also engaged in conversation.

Global Perspectives on Justice and Welfare

- Expand your horizons with us

Are you concerned about injustice and inequality?

Discover Global Perspectives on Justice and Welfare - a dynamic course offered at the University of Southern Denmark in Odense.

Join an international network of students from Brazil, India, Georgia, Denmark, South Africa, and other countries in the EU, all interested in sharing perspectives on social justice transcending the North-South divide.

Why take this course?

- Gain insights into social, economic, and political challenges impacting justice and welfare worldwide.
- Engage with real-world issues through case studies, interactive workshops, and international expert videos.
- Learn to recognize and critique 'institutions' that create inequality and poverty.

Flexible and engaging learning format

This hybrid course combines online flexibility with interactive, real-world learning. You'll dive into engaging materials, connect with students worldwide, and participate in exercises that bring the topics to life.

So, if you are a student in law, political science or social science, sign up for our course!

www.sdu.dk/en/justsociety